April is a month of new beginnings.

April is here. As I look over the landscapes, the flowers and trees are budding. Frequently I pull over to a few of my favorite areas and enable my mind to discontinue from running and allow my soul to find its resting place. I listened as the stream burbles as it travels along its bed, bubbling over rocks and branches. These are places in this time of social separation; my anxiety levels decrease. However, as I sit in my office after being anointed with the fresh gentle rainfall, I contemplate what does all this mean? Life is changing and shifting, and society is experiencing a new way of existing. Previously I will get up and go to the gym and then cruise to the office; however, now life is not as stressful, and with leisure, I can drive to work. Every raindrop sends a different message to my windshield as a reminder that Mother Nature has my back. Crops will grow because the land will receive these blissful drops. Water wells and creeks will flow into the river and homes as a reminder that nature, water, and property will cooperate to ensure that food insecurities are no longer, although life is changing; however, things remain the same. A familiar hymn reminds us that “The month of April is a month of new beginnings, time to remember and move on, time to believe what love is bringing, laying to rest the pain that's gone.” However is life really changing? Have we as a society experienced this before? Thinking back as a child as I grew up was not their challenge? Yes, families are making hard decisions and wondering about losing their jobs, medical care, and possibly their homes. Social distance is new for many, however, not new challenges for some. Sadly some always lived trying to figure what the next day may bring. COVID 19 is causing the majority to consider the well being of all and not the selective few. We experienced social separations before if we check our history. And yes, families and communities adjusted their way of living. We have always overcome the challenges of life, and rest assured we will do this again. The immediate threat is not knowing what tomorrow may bring. It is now that we can become neighbors emotionally shaking hands of one another as we experience our new reality. Look at our history and as we battle this time of separation and resist enslavement into darkness. Remind yourselves we overcame challenges before. The songwriter said, “I will lift my eyes unto the hills from where my help comes.” Maybe what is happening is that as a society, we realize that we must slow down and recollect ourselves that we as a society are an essential part of our community. I remember growing up with all the social upheaval and the fight for racial equality. We lived with modest means. We shared resources with our neighbors. The idea of borrowing sugar from the neighbors was a hopeful way of living. I knew my neighbors. My family helped to ensure that we all were valued. Time seemed unsure however neighbors and especially the church did not feel less essential. Perhaps this is what COVID 19 is doing. It is forcing us to slow down and remember we all are imperative and have responsibility for each other. More so that not only that we should know each other and provide care and substance for each other but also remind each other that God knows our name. Conceivably this is a time for God to counsel us, walk with us, talk with us, and tell us that we are God’s very own. In this time of distancing from each other, we should take this time to understand that we are essential, and despite our anxiety levels and imperfection, God loves us. Amazingly we are experiencing COVID 19 during our Lenten Season. In a Time, we vow to pray more, study more, and strengthen our relationship with God. In doing this, what good is it to improve our relationship if we do not use our dedication to increase our relationship with each other, especially if we do not share it. We in the United Church of Christ speak of being the church. And on our banner states, we will protect the environment, care for the poor, fight for the powerless, embrace diversity, forgive often, reject racism, share human and spiritual resources, Love God, and enjoy this life. Living now is the best time to be the church. Our society is depending on us not to lose our praise. Society is expecting us to be the voice in this time of isolation. We once again can live in our rightful place and still be the pillar of our community. Yes, this is a time of reflection and renewal. Let this separation be your time of intensive healing and repair. And as we March forward to April, let the season of Spring invite us to new trust and revelation of God. I implore each of you not to be like Mary in the Gospel of John 11. Mary, who was in-between emotions because of the love for a brother who died and the love for Jesus (unfulfilled desire) in her time of separation, is our expressions. Although there are times we need to experience this unfulfilled desire for humanity. Hopefully, as we experience this unfulfilled experience and will move us to help others not feel the isolation we experienced. Let us now withdraw within and say Lord if you had been here then we will not have to encounter this isolation. Let us boldly proclaim in these obstacles that God is faithful to perform and has begun a great work within us. Let our actions remind our community this is a day of new beginnings. And that God is doing great work with every one of us. We do not fear COVID 19, yes, we respect the challenges that are before us. However, we do not live in fear. We pray for those who are taking steps to ensure that humanity remains healthy and well; yet, we will not live in fear. Oh, we will continue to take steps to eradicate COVID 19, and by allowing our healthcare system to carry the appropriate action, we will not live in fear. We will honor each other by keeping our safe distances and maintaining sanitizing practices; however, we will not live in fear. Together we will get through this.

It is then we the church can proclaim Glory to God because we never lost our praise!

Treasurer’s Report: Shelley reported that Fidelity bought out the trust portion of Jonestown Bank and Trust. A motion was passed and approved to have Christ Church use Fidelity to oversee our stocks. Approved.

Congregation Speaks/Pastor’s Report: Pastor Tony distributed report and discussion was held. Please see Attachment I. Report was distributed for use at Congregational Meeting. Any documents for the Congregational Meeting will be distributed far more in advance for review by all. Special distribution will be handled for those of the congregation that do not have email. PowerPacks for summer were discussed. We need to have better signage and more control of traffic flow. These distributions will take place over an eight week period; beginning the second week of June and ending the week before school starts; probably on Thursday’s from 3-4pm. We will receive an estimate of 21 power packs for families. There are 5-6 kids interested in confirmation. Pastor Tony is thinking about having the meetings on Sunday afternoons from 3-5pm with pizza and snacks.

Congregational Care & Hospitality Committee

Congregational Care Committee meeting: To keep our members safe, we are canceling our April 6th meeting. The Christ Church Crafters will also be canceling their April 20th meeting.

One of our responsibilities is to provide spiritual oversight to the congregation. So here are a few things that we can all do at home during this time of "staying put at home".

1. Be with your family. Have conversations, play your favorite game, take a walk outside together. Call your family on a regular basis.
2. Put the family bible on a visible spot in your home - each day open a page and read it through - think how does it apply to my life.
3. If you have Facebook - tune in to Pastor Tony on Sundays at 10 am.
4. Help your fellow church members: How?
  - a. Call one person from church each day - just to ask how they are doing. You can end the call with a prayer.
  - b. Send an email or card to a church member.
  - c. Pray for a church member.
5. Keep your stress level down.
  - Get outside and garden
  - Get yourself into some type of routine
  - Give yourself a challenge: I am going to read # books this week.
  - Pick up that hobby you have been putting off
  - Limit your time on the computer checking the news
  - Pray to God
  - Go onto the Penn Central UCC website and sign up for Daily Devotions.
  - Other: add in what works for you.

Stay safe, know that God is with us, you can always talk to him - he is listening.

BIRD HOUSE NEWS

The “Bird House News” will feature news within CCUCC’s church family, much like the ‘Church Mouse’ article of times past. The difference between the two will be that one person wrote the ‘Church Mouse’ and the “Bird House News” will be written and submitted to the Wake Tree editor, as individuals would like to share news. Please place your news article in the Wake Tree editor’s mail slot or place in the plastic window holder outside the office. Please title your article and identify yourself as the writer. Looking forward to some good “Bird House News” - Judy Barchet

Thank you to the people who put together our yearly Lenten Devotional and for keeping the tradition going! - Jean Rhine
